

Giulio Boccaletti

Executive Producer

I am an author and expert in environmental and resource security. I love documentary making and have worked as consultant and contributor to H2O: The Molecule That Made Us (Passion Pictures) and The Age of Nature with Brian Leith Productions. I am now executive producer on the follow up series with Brian Leith Productions. I have worked in over a dozen countries on a wide range of environmental and development issues. I am a physicist by training. I have a PhD in Atmospheric and Oceanic Sciences from Princeton University, where I was a NASA Earth Systems Science Fellow, and was an oceanographer at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. I subsequently joined McKinsey & Company. As a partner of the firm led its work on water and development across four continents. I was the Global Managing Director for water and then the Chief Strategy Officer of The Nature Conservancy, the largest conservation organization in the world. I am a co-founder of the company Chloris Geospatial and the scientific director of the Euro-Mediterranean Center on Climate Change. My first book, Water: A biography (Pantheon, 2021), was named one of the best of the year by The Economist and was translated into several languages. My second book, was Siccità (Mondadori, 2023). I am working on my third book for Princeton University Press.
