

Tammy Cannon

Production Manager

I am a production manager with 12 years of experience in the industry. Having previously worked in South Africa, I moved to the UK in 2014 and managed a range of productions in factual entertainment and specialist factual documentaries, at various independent production companies in London. In 2020, I moved to Bristol and my credits include “Expedition with Steve Backshall: Unpacked” and the landmark series “Predators”, for Netflix and Sky Nature. I became part of the BLP family in 2023, working with a stellar team on the exciting new series of “The Future of Nature” for PBS and BBC Studios. We are very excited to share this new informative and educational series with the world, and hopefully make it a better place.
